

Clinical Data Management System

The model determines the behaviour of the system.
Clinicians can control what data is captured and what rules are associated with that data.
The system the clinicians use is controlled by the model.
Information is stored in electronic format.

